

Version control with Git exercise

In this exercise we will show how version control with Git can be implemented for an example R project. The project is the same that is created in the first workflow exercise, however to save time or in case you haven't completed this exercise we will start with the finished output from it.

```
<script type="application/javascript" src="light-dark.js"></script>
```